What counts as class supplemental work?

Students need 4 hours of applicable work experience (including the journal) for learning that is in addition to the regular assignments of the class. An example would be as such: for a counseling class, practical experience in counseling at a rehabilitation center, group home, or mission activity. For theology classes such as Church History, experience could include going to a meeting discussing history, hearing a lecture or sermon on church history, doing extra research for a paper or a thesis, watching a program or a movie on church history, teaching a class on history, or something similar. The student receives credit once the journal above is completed, signed and turned in to the advisor within the 9 week course. Work experience and journal must cover 4 hours a week for a total of 36 hours per course, per quarter.
